A Splendid Program.

On Monday evening of March 27th upon the adjournment of the regular meeting of the Chapter of Order of the Eastern Star, those present were asked to remain for a program and social hour which had been arranged by the persons who had, at different times, represented star point, Adah. Since this point represents the daughter's station the program was very fittingly arranged to exemplify typical daughters of history and the part they have played in the progress of the world.

Mrs. Ada Fletcher, costumed in flowing white robes, played the part of the recording angel and read from the great white book the chapters which recorded the various deeds of these noble daughters. The first voice coming to her from infinity down through the past centuries was that of Adah, the great warrior Jephtha's daughter who died to save her father's honor. Mrs. Mary Whitworth, gowned as this Jewess maiden and kneeling as at the sacred shrine, read in a beautiful and impressive manner, the poem entitled "Jephtha's Daughter."

The next character to be revealed through the angel was that of "Joan of Arc," the shepherd girl from the hills and forests of Lorraine, who made the greatest sacrifice it is possible for one to make for her country. Mrs. Lee Barger, costumed to represent this French maiden, in her usual pleasing manner sang, "Jeanne de Arc."

Then the recording angel spoke of the colonial days in the land of the Pilgrims. Mrs. Mary Whitworth dressed as the pilgrim maiden, seated at the old-fashioned spinning wheel, hummed the tune of the pilgrim anthem while the angel read a tribute to these patient and courageous daughters of Plymouth. The audience was filled with a feeling for and patriotic devotion toward our forefathers when Mrs. Whitworth closed this scene by singing in such an impressive way, "Ainsworth's One Hundredth Psalm," the pilgrim anthem.

Then the voices, speaking of the daughters of '61, who suffered and sacrificed were next heard. The spirit of these daughters that played a part in so welding together a great country that when in 1917 the extreme test of the nation came the daughters of that land all spoke, acted and served together, was beautifully portrayed when Mrs. Roy Robinson and Mrs. Lee Barger, costumed as maidens of '61, one from the North and one from the South, came into a room together and finding a flag faded and torn, with some of its stars missing, together grasped its folds and with needle and thread tenderly healed its scars and replaced the missing stars. The spirit manifested by both the North and the South when the test of our Nation came was called as these two maidens, while holding the flag between them, together gave the following toast: Here's to the blue of the wind swept North.

Now that your days of war are gone, May the spirit of Grant be with you all.

As the girls of the North come on, Here's to the red of the Sun Kissed South.

Now that your days of war are gone, May the spirit of Lee be with you all As the girls of the South come on, Here's to the blue and the gray as one, May the spirit be with us all!

Then the record of the daughters of the Red Cross with the understanding of what of pain, what of sacrifice, and what of glory goes into the making of this life was represented when Miss Christoph so effectively gave Edgar A. Guest's "America."

The closing scene presented a most fitting climax when, as the light from an electric star threw a soft hue over the stage, Mrs. Ada Fletcher, as the recording angel, in a most reverent and impressive manner rendered Margaret Sangster's, "Prayer of Peace." The audience was not only highly entertained but was very greatly impressed by these vivid portrayals of our daughters of history and reminded one of the responsibility of life and inspired all to greater service toward humanity.

A social hour was then enjoyed after which dainty refreshments were served. All returned to their homes feeling that they had been greatly benefited, not only in a recreational way though pleasant association, but also through the uplifting and inspirational effects of the lives portrayed through the effective rendition of such a program.

Des Arc Items.

In last week's REGISTER I thanked Bro. Geo. W. Taylor and others for putting a new floor on our wire bridge across Big Creek. I am sorry to say that last Friday night Big Creek got out of its banks and washed our new bridge away, so a number of school children will have to quit school as they can not cross the creek. The south end of the wagon bridge has washed around the end, so wagons can not cross. I have addressed a letter to the county court asking to have the wire bridge put back. It will not cost very much and I hope the court will attend to it at once.

Mrs. Jerry Vaughn, 96 years old, died at her home, near Vulcan, last Friday, and was buried at the Ruble graveyard Sunday. Mrs. Vaughn was first married to a Mr. Callison. He was killed by bushwhackers in 1863. In 1868 she married Jerry Vaughn. He died 25 or 30 years ago. She had but one daughter, who has been dead fourteen years.

Mr. and Mrs. Ray Haggerty are the proud parents of a fine baby girl who arrived March 31st. She has been named Geraldine Flo.

Mrs. J. S. O'Neal was here from Poplar Bluff last week to visit her sister, Mrs. W. E. McKee, and family, and Mrs. Ray Haggerty.

Mrs. E. W. Fitz and baby are in St. Louis, visiting relatives and shopping. Mrs. Alice Huff returned home Sunday from St. Louis, where she had been taking medical treatment.

Carl Semands and wife came from Williamsville Sunday. They will locate here.

Miss Bly Stevenson from Williamsville spent Sunday here with her parents.

Mrs. Jas. Walcott has returned from Springfield, Mo., where she was called by the death of a sister.

Rev. Odell filled his regular appointment here at the Baptist church Sunday. ISAAC.
